WORK STATION

COMPANY BACKGROUND

Showroom Workstation is a vibrant cultural centre in the heart of Sheffield, a place to meet, work, learn and play.

Housing a cinema and a creative business centre, it is based in the converted 1930's Kenning's car showroom, located in the area adjacent to Sheffield train station which was once teaming with steel and silver fabricators. The formerly derelict art deco building was rescued from demolition by Sheffield Media & Exhibition Centre Ltd (SMEC) in 1989 and it opened in its new guise in stages from 1993 -1998. It is now an internationally significant cultural centre and hub for the region and a treasured independent cinema.

showroom cinema

Showroom Cinema is one of the largest independent cinemas in Europe with four luxury auditoria, education spaces and a café/bar. It presents a lively programme of films from around the world, from contemporary film to classic cinema and is proud to screen a diverse original programme, relevant to its local and regional audiences.

The venue regularly hosts festivals and events, often bringing creative practitioners to Sheffield for live question and answer sessions - giving audiences a chance to meet experts from different media, learn new skills and cultivate new ideas.

WORK STATION

A hub for creativity, the Workstation is home to over 60 of Sheffield's most inspiring cultural, creative, and digital companies, working with clients in the region, the UK and internationally.

Facilities within the building include; dedicated tenant services and maintenance teams, high-speed broadband, secure 24-hour access, roof terrace with city-wide views, and a variety of meeting rooms and event spaces.

A calendar of networking and social events in partnership with organisations from across the region are regularly held in this unique building. While tenants can also enjoy a host of exclusive health and wellbeing benefits.

Showroom Workstation's parent company is a Registered Charity. It exists to support the cultural and educational provision around film for Sheffield and has wider ambitions to support and develop the independent film sector in the region, with particular interests in documentary film and cinema for young people. These interests are reflected in the major activities it has undertaken across the past 20 years of its existence.

Together, Showroom and Workstation provide facilities, training opportunities and engagement for the Film Industry. We successfully managed the first Film Hub North (FHN) project from 2014 to 2018, as part of the BFI Film Audience Network. Due to the success of FHN, and the other Hubs across the UK, a second project was funded by the BFI, from 2018 to 2022 and we have recently been successful in securing the project for another three years which will commence in April 2023.

FHN is being delivered in partnership between Showroom Workstation and HOME (Manchester). This makes us the largest of the 8 BFI funded regional Film Hubs in the UK, which make up the Film Audience Network. All the Hubs in the Network are managed by leading film organisations and venues strategically placed around the country. More information about FHN and the FAN is available on the following link: www.filmhubnorth.org.uk. We are the Hub Lead Organisation for Film Hub North, part of the BFI's UK-wide initiative The Audience Network, providing cultural leadership and coordination for film exhibition for the whole of the North of England.
